11.2 Calcium

Calcium is a macromineral and the most abundant mineral in the body. The reason for calcium’s abundance is its distribution in the skeleton, which contains 99% of the calcium in the body.

Subsections:

11.21 Calcium Absorption
11.22 Calcium Bioavailability
11.23 Calcium Functions
11.24 Calcium Deficiency & Toxicity